applied. This is to meet the need for a classroom examination of the subject curriculum in conformity with the accepted principle of integrating theory with practice. This will enable the in-service as well as the pre-service teacher to see the use to which the concepts discussed have been put in the various subject curricula in Nigeria. They will therefore be in a position to make meaningful contributions towards a critique of the curriculum of their subject areas as offered both in terms of internal deficiencies and of the practical issues of implementation.
