INTRODUCTION

The French language is one of the most important foreign languages on the African continent today. Most countries need to interact in order to form unifying bodies for their economic, political and technological advancement in the modern world.

The French language is one of the five official languages of the United Nations Organisation (UNO) and one of the three official languages of the Organisation of African Unity (OAU). Apart from the above mentioned organisations, Nigeria is also a member of other international organisations where French and English are used as media of communication. Some of these organisations are; Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS). Nigeria, an anglophone country, is surrounded by francophone countries. Essentially
